

BUILDING A LIFE, ONE CHOICE AT A TIME: TRAN THAI BAO HAN

There was a time when Tran Thai Bao Han's future depended largely on whether her family could afford to keep her in school.

Without her father, and with her mother struggling with long-term health problems, daily life was difficult. The family had no stable income, and education often felt uncertain. During those years, support from L.O.V.E. helped Bao Han continue studying and lifted part of the burden from her family's shoulders.

What may have seemed like a small sponsorship at the time became part of a much bigger journey. Today, Bao Han works as a Business Analyst at an IT company in Da Nang. She is now able to support her family and build a more stable life for herself, a goal that once felt unreachable. She still remembers the support she received growing up, not only because it helped financially, but because it reminded her that someone believed her future was worth investing in.

Bao Han hopes younger students facing difficult circumstances will continue believing in education and in themselves, even when the road ahead feels uncertain.

Sometimes, changing a child's future does not begin with something extraordinary. Sometimes, it simply begins with giving them the chance to keep going.
