

A Foundation for the Future

Growing up in a family with only his mother and three siblings, Trinh Viet Nghia understood the challenges of pursuing an education while facing financial hardship. For many years, every step forward required determination and the support of those who believed in his potential.

Supported by LOVE from secondary school through university graduation in 2023, Nghia gained not only the opportunity to continue his education but also the confidence to plan for his future. The sponsorship eased his family's burden, while the care and encouragement from sponsors inspired him to keep striving through every challenge.

Today, Nghia works for a Chinese company as an interpreter, taking on translation and related responsibilities. He knows that in today's competitive job market, education and perseverance make all the difference.

He hopes current sponsorship recipients will continue investing in their studies, knowing that the effort they make today can create more choices for tomorrow. Stories like Nghia's reflect the lasting impact of education and the generosity of sponsors who make these opportunities possible.
